Dear Mr. and Ms. Bevers:

Thank you so much for your extraordinarily generous contribution to support CRV research. I know you have made long-standing and multiple contributions and that your foundation has provided an extraordinary amount of funding to support Dr. Atkinson's research.

The information on your website and your efforts personally and professionally to make this the highest research priority are greatly appreciated. I have heard that your golf tournaments and Sporting Clay tournaments are extraordinarily successful and that people from a broad region support these initiatives in order to enhance research for CRV.

I know that you have lost family members to CRV. This is a devastating disease for which we remain incredibly committed to identifying methods to prevent, treat, and ultimately cure this disease. If there is ever anything that I can do to continue to help in your efforts, please let me know. I would be happy to provide any additional support that you need.

This institution depends on individuals such as you to carry out its mission. Philanthropy and patients and families who have been impacted by disease are extremely important. You inspire us and you remind us that the work that we do is critical for the future, and we must work faster so that fewer patients and families are impacted.

Thank you very much for your contributions, your hard work and your commitment.

With warm regards,

Victoria J. Fraser, MD
